Visiting Assistant Professor

A&S Geography

The Department of Geography in the McMicken College of Arts & sciences is seeking a Visiting Assistant Professor for the 2015-2016 academic year with specialty in the fields of human geography and GIS. The successful candidate is expected to hold a PhD or ABD in Geography. Experience in teaching and working with a diverse student body is highly desirable. The incumbent will be responsible to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses in human geography (such as, urban, population, medical, public health, and human dimension in land cover change) and the applications of GIS in human geography and public health research.

Interested and qualified candidates must complete our online application, submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses, and phone numbers of three references. This information is to be submitted via our jobs website at https://jobs.uc.edu (Requisition #5663). For more information and assistance, please email Dr. Susanna Tong at tongty@UCMAIL.UC.EDU or call Dr. Hongxing Liu at 513-2278494.

Our Department of Geography has one of the most highly-rated programs in the country. According to the 2013-2014 Academic Analytics, the UC Geography program was ranked 18th out of 66 PhD granting geography programs in the nation. In recent years, the faculty has made concerted effort in improving the quality and structure of the undergraduate and graduate curriculum.

We are an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Women, People of Color, persons with a disability, and covered veterans and disabled veterans are encouraged to apply. We are committed to increasing the diversity of the University community. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths or experiences in this area.
