UC JOURNALISM FALL OF FAME INDUCTS MERRILL GOOZNER ON APRIL 8TH

The University of Cincinnati Department of Journalism will induct Merrill Goozner into its Hall of Fame on April 8, 2016. Goozner writes about health care economics, and is Editor of Modern Healthcare based in Chicago.

Goozner took his bachelor’s degree in history from the University of Cincinnati in 1975, and graduated from Columbia University’s Graduate School of Journalism in 1982. His prolific career includes several posts at The Chicago Tribune, including Chief Economics Correspondent, National Correspondent, Chief Asia Correspondent, and Regional Economics Correspondent. Goozner was also a Senior Correspondent at the Fiscal Times in Washington, DC, and his work has appeared in several nationally prominent publications including The New York Times, The Washington Post, Columbia Journalism Review, The Nation, The American Prospect, Washington Monthly, Slate.com and Salon.com.

In 2005, Goozner published a book, The 800 Million Pill: The Truth Behind the Cost of Prescription Drugs with University of California Press. Goozner previously served as a Journalism Fellow at the University of Michigan, and a journalism professor at New York University, where he taught business and economics reporting. In 2008, the McMicken College of Arts & Sciences honored him with its Distinguished Alumni Award.

Induction into the UC Journalism Hall of Fame is a special honor reserved for UC alumni who have excelled in the profession of journalism, or individuals who have made a significant contribution to the study of journalism at UC. Previous inductees include Luke Feck, William J. Keating, John Molloy and Mary Linn White (2009); Walt Handelsman and Ginny Hunter (2010); Jim Knippenberg and Henry Segal (2011); Dennis Janson (2012); Jon Hughes (2013); Kathy Doane and Cliff Radel (2014); Ray Locker, Lew Moores, and Kira Lisa Warren (2015).

The 8th annual UC Journalism Hall of Fame and Awards Ceremony will be held April 8, 2016 from 4:30-6:30 p.m. in the UC Faculty Club (8th floor of the Richard E. Lindner Center in the Varsity Village/Athletics building). Hors D’oeuvres, drinks and a cash bar are included. Please RSVP to Jeffrey.Blevins@UC.edu as soon as possible (space is limited).
