Lawrence Baron is a Professor holding the Nasatir Chair of Modern Jewish History at San Diego State University and was director of its Jewish Studies Program until 2006. He received his Ph.D in Modern European Cultural and Intellectual History at the University of Wisconsin, where he studied with George L. Mosse. He has authored and edited four books including The Modern Jewish Experience in World Cinema and Projecting the Holocaust into the Present: The Changing Focus of Contemporary Holocaust Cinema. He served as the historian and as the interviewer for Sam and Pearl Oliner’s The Altruistic Personality: Rescuers of Jews in Nazi Europe. In 2006, he delivered the keynote address for Yad Vashem’s first conference devoted to Hollywood and the Holocaust. Professor Baron’s contribution to Holocaust Studies was recently profiled in Fifty Key Thinkers on the Holocaust and Genocide. He is currently the President for the Western Jewish Studies Association, the Chair of the Film Committee of the Association for Jewish Studies, and a film reviewer for the San Diego Jewish World.
