No Colloquium Today
Sorry folks, we don’t have a colloquium today because it is examination week.

Climate Change Exhibit
Check out the article on the new climate change exhibit at the Museum Center.
Doug Defended

Congratulations to Doug Disbennett who successfully defended his Master’s thesis last week. Well-done Doug.

New Paper

We published another paper this past week. Check it out:

Summer Fieldwork

Good luck with your summer fieldwork. Here are some words of wisdom from John Dewey about fieldwork:

> "The field is where the truth resides; it is the essential core of geology. Models are essential figments of the imagination which must be tested by observation. Those who do no field work and do not gather data will never understand geology"

(John Dewey, quoted in Butler, 2008).

Photo credit: Darrell Henry

---

Have a great summer and please keep sending me your news. Please take lots of photos for Rolling Rocks.

Cheers,

Lewis