Colloquium Today
There will not be a colloquium today because of our Careers Days event and we will be leaving late this afternoon for our fall fieldtrip.

Career Day Today
The Career Days talks yesterday were fascinating and we all learnt an incredible amount. We will continue this morning. Please see below.

Fundraiser for Victoria
Thanks to everyone who helped organize and attended the fundraiser for Victoria last Sunday. The event was a great success and great fun.

New Papers
Congratulations to Stephanie on having a paper published on her work in the Western Ross Sea:

Hall, B.L., Denton, G.H., Heath, S.L., Jackson, M.S. and Koffman, T.B.N. 2015. Accumulation and marine forcing of ice dynamics in the western Ross Sea during the last deglaciation. Nature Geoscience, 8, 625-629.

New Grant
Josh Miller has just been awarded a NGS grant for his work on "The Bones of Amboseli: 40 years of death, destruction, and preservation in an East African ecosystem" Well-done Josh.
Chairman Chris
Congratulation to Chris who has just been elected to serve as Chairman of the Geoscience Education Division for the Geological Society of America. His term will start during the GSA meeting in Baltimore.

Swedish Soccer

Warren sent this photograph that he copied from Frida’s Facebook page. Apparently her shot lead to beating the Finns in the recent Sweden-Finland competition. Please ask Frida for more details.

Cheers,
Lewis
